FOREWORD

FOR seventy-five years the Harvard School for Boys has been one of the leading educational institutions in Chicago. It has passed through several critical stages in the country's development. Founded shortly after the end of the Civil War, Harvard has successfully undergone such crises as the Chicago Fire, the Panic of '73, the Spanish-American War, the World War, and finally the disastrous depression from which we are still emerging. With extraordinary fortitude the leaders of the school have overcome obstacles so successfully that Harvard is now a thriving institution of nearly two-hundred pupils. In this Anniversary issue of the Review, we are attempting to accomplish two ends: To trace the development of the school during its first seventy-five years, and to present a clear picture of the Harvard School as it is today.

JOHN J. SCHOBINGER

To the memory of John J. Schobinger (1846-1927), for fifty years the head of the Harvard School,—inspiring teacher, tireless worker, kindly friend—

To the memory of John C. Grant (1848-1914), for thirty-five years his loyal associate,—sound scholar, thorough teacher, upright man—

To the memory of Charles D. Hamill (1839-1905), member of the first board of trustees, for twenty-five years advisor and friend—

JOHN C. GRANT

To his son, Charles H. Hamill, our present counsellor, a graduate of the school and for the last twenty-five years our wise and steadfast advisor, President of the Harvard School Building Company—

To the memory of the members of the first board of trustees, who in the early days of the city's development strengthened and supported the school:

Edson Keith	Alfred Cowles
Marshall Field	Wirt Dexter
John G. Shortall	N. K. Fairbank
George Armour	Charles D. Hamill

CHARLES H. HAMILL

To all succeeding Board members, Directors of the School, or of the Building Company, who in the past and up to the present have given us their confidence and help:

Edward G. Mason (1882-1899)	Dr. Lester E. Frankenthal (1913-1917)
John W. Daane (1880-1901)	J. Ogden Armour (1915-1917)
William Gold Hibbard (1884-1887)	James E. Greenebaum (1916-1923)
Norman Williams (1887-1899)	William E. Bode (1917-1922)
Byron L. Smith (1889-1894)	Hon. Jesse Holdam (1917-1931)
Dr. Otto L. Schmidt (1907-1917)	Kellagg Fairbank (1917-1939)
Dr. Lewis L. McArthur (1909-1917)	L. E. Black (1917-1931)
	Joseph E. Otis (1908-1917)

John R. Thompson (1909-1917)	A. W. Meyer (1917-1931)
Charles H. Hamill (1915-)	Solomon Sturges (1917-1937)
Joseph L. Block (1939-)	Frederic Burnham (1935-)

To the memory of these teachers of the school and many others, who have forever laid down their books, and whose faithful unremitting efforts in the past have formed the minds and spirits of their charges:

DEDICATION

To the following teachers and others who have withdrawn from work in our school to work in other fields, and whose memories these pages will kindle:

C. L. Ricketts	Wendel S. Brooks
Andrew L. Winters	Clara E. Peterson
Helen F. Page	Angus M. Frew
Elizabeth Faulkner	Robert G. Buzzard
Payson S. Wild	Mary McCann Johnson
Walter M. Schimmel	Elizabeth E. Langley
C. C. Wood	Harriet Rice
Dorothy Higgins Brown	Gertrude Brown
Isabel Travis McKnight	M. Elizabeth Perley

Ann Letsch Anderson

To the present faculty which carries on the torch—

To those men who at some time have gone through the doors of this school, and whose minds and characters may thereby have been enriched and strengthened for their tasks in life, to our alumni, both the living and the dead—

To all of these, the seventy-fifth class of the Harvard School for Boys gratefully and affectionately dedicates this book.

To us who work with Mr. Pence day by day, he is more than a teacher; we regard him as a sincere friend and a wise counselor. Mr. Pence is a firm believer in a classical education; no one should leave the Harvard School without making a thorough study of Cicero, Caesar, Virgil, and the other Roman masters, under this gifted pedagog. Well-known to leading educators throughout the country, Mr. Pence has no trouble placing his boys in good colleges and universities.

CHARLES EDGAR PENCE

OUR FACULTY

It is through Miss Schobinger's efforts that the daily life of the Harvard School is so pleasantly efficient. She takes charge of everyday problems, such as school assemblies and announcements; she directs or sponsors many activities, giving willingly in time and effort to the P. T. A., the Antenna, the Review, and the Honor Society. Her French classes are among the most enjoyable in the school. Life at Harvard would be infinitely less interesting and beneficial without the steadying influence of this gracious, charming woman.

Seventy Five Years

WITH CHICAGO AND THE HARVARD SCHOOL FOR BOYS

1865-1940

IT was 1865; the Civil War was over. The city of Chicago, thirty years earlier a straggling village on the banks of a sluggish stream, now found itself an important center, the hub of the rapidly developing West. Ugly and untidy, but full of vitality and energy, it was the place of which Dickens wrote: "This is the first American city I have encountered. Having seen it once, I urgently desire never to see it again. It is inhabited by savages." Its amazing growth, for already it had a population of one hundred seventy-nine thousand inhabitants, attracted young men from the East seeking wider opportunities. A large group, including young Marshall Field, came together from Vermont. The war had stimulated Chicago's industries, and it was too early to feel the inevitable backwash of war,—financial depression. The sprawling city of small frame houses spread far out to the West Side, then one of the fashionable sections, and stretched several miles north and south. Its imposing center of five and six story brick buildings clustered about what is now the "Loop." Tree-lined Michigan Avenue, a wide and pleasant city residence street, resounded to the hoof beats of smartly-groomed horses taking their masters to work in surreys and landaus; and on the outskirts near Congress Street, quiet Wabash Avenue had its hospitable homes set far back from the street in well tended lawns.

Wealth was rapidly piling up, and many of the business men who came from New England intended to send their children to Eastern colleges; but educational facilities were not yet fully developed in Chicago. These conditions led Mr. Edward S. Waters, a scholarly Harvard man, to open a preparatory school for young men. It was situated in a house at Congress and Wabash Avenues, and named the "Harvard School for Boys" in honor of his alma mater. The school struggled along; financial conditions were not so rosy; then came the Chicago fire and the depression resulting from it and the war. The population of Chicago had, however, more than doubled in ten years; it was over 400,000 in 1875. It was then that John J. Schobinger, a young Swiss graduate of the University of Zurich, came to the school as a teacher of natural science and remained to guide its destinies for the next fifty years. In 1875 the school, then at No. 21 Sixteenth Street, had sixteen pupils; in 1878, thirty-five; in 1880, seventy-five; in 1882, one hundred fifteen. In spite of this apparently rapid development, the school labored under great financial strain during these early years. One year when final accounts were cast up, Mr. Schobinger found that he had earned just one dollar per day. In fact, when summer came he had exactly nothing to live on for three months of vacation, and only the timely invitation of one of his pupils, Walter Grey, to spend the summer with his family in the country saved the day. Their country home was far out in Hyde Park, accessible only by rail.

It may be interesting to read the program of the commencement exercises of 1882, which started at nine o'clock in the morning and lasted until four or five o'clock in the afternoon. A large part of the program consisted of public demonstrations of proficiency in various subjects, given before an audience of proud or apprehensive parents.

In 1880 John C. Grant came into the school as a teacher, became Mr. Schobinger's partner the following year, and remained as co-principal until his death in 1913. Many old-timers will remember the tall, fine-looking man with his piercing blue eyes that struck terror into the hearts of any evil doers, and even of innocent bystanders. Mr. Grant was a man whose very presence and dignity inspired respect.

In 1878 the school moved into a building it had purchased at 2101 Indiana Avenue, at the south-east corner of 21st Street. The facilities of this building were subsequently increased by the construction of a gymnasium and class rooms at the east end of the lot, with a tan-bark covered playground between.

The school remained there until 1896, when a shift in population to the south made a move necessary. The city had grown by that time to more than one and a half millions. In 1905 the school was dealt almost a fatal blow when the University of Chicago opened the University High School. At that time at least thirty or forty pupils went in a body to the new school. It is of course always difficult for an unendowed school to compete in physical equipment with schools backed either by taxes or by tremendous financial resources. The fact that the Harvard School has been able to do so successfully is significant. The year 1905 marked also the death of one of Harvard's best friends, a member of its board of trustees,—William Rainey Harper, president of the University of Chicago.

Since 1896 the school has been in the Kenwood district, from 1896 until 1906 in the Gossage house, set far back from Lake Park Avenue and 47th Street in a huge lot, with a large playground adjoining; then at the northeast corner of 47th Street and Drexel Boulevard, and finally in the new home built for it in 1917 by means of a loan raised by friends and alumni. The campaign for the necessary $120,000 loan was undertaken singlehanded by Mr. Schobinger in his seventieth year. The first big boost for the fund was given by J. Ogden Armour, whose business was then in the flush of war expansion; he offered ten thousand dollars to start the ball rolling. It was during this time that Mr. Schobinger felt his life work rewarded by the kindness and generous interest of his many "old boys" who wished to see the school in a permanent home.

In the course of years, the Harvard School absorbed several other preparatory schools in the neighborhood and became the preeminent boys' day school of the South Side.

In 1912 an able and enthusiastic young man became associated with the school as a teacher of the classics. Mr. Schobinger was so impressed with his ability that some years later he asked him to assume greater responsibilities, and in 1919 Mr. Pence became co-principal with him.

In 1925, due to the disabilities of age, Mr. Schobinger became principal emeritus, and Miss Schobinger assistant principal. Upon her father's death in 1927, she assumed the duties of full principal together with Mr. Pence, an arrangement that is still in force.

The school has weathered many storms in the course of seventy-five years. It has passed through depressions,—that of 1873, the financial crisis of 1893, the panic of 1907, the war, 1914-1918, and this final long depression of 1929 to 1939. It has passed through tragedies far worse than panic and depression, but has held up its head proudly, confident in the knowledge that its name and honor have remained unsmirched. We feel that the Harvard School for Boys would not have stood the test of time if it had not contributed something worth while to the city and its development; and so we bespeak the continued support of the community, the alumni, and the school body.

Now again the school building has become too small. During the past twenty years the importance of physical development has been more and more emphasized, and the growth of the school demands more elbow room. Our present gymnasium is too small to accommodate our many play teams, large and small. Once before, when the school was farther north, a gymnasium was built on the east end of the lot. That is exactly what we plan to do now, with the help of friends and alumni, and thus fitly celebrate the seventy-fifth anniversary of Chicago's oldest private school.

ALUMNI NOTES

FOREWORD

The material for these Alumni Notes has been gathered over a period of eighteen months. During this time, innumerable personal letters, cards, blanks, and form letters have been sent out, hundreds of personal messages have been added to form letters, and many alumni and friends have been called upon for help. The response has been excellent. Not more than a dozen letters have been returned for want of a correct address; and the majority of blanks have been promptly returned, properly filled out, and frequently accompanied by additional information and pleasant personal messages. The latter have greatly added to the pleasure of the work. We could hardly get over our school-teacher habit of putting the old boys in their places. Those who did as they were asked were mentally marked "satisfactory;" but if they added a friendly or interesting message, they were given A or A+. The ones who didn't answer, and even kept the stamped and addressed envelope which had been provided, were "flunked" quite heartlessly. There are, however, few of these. Messrs. Charles H. Hamill, Arthur Meeker, Daniel J. Schuyler, Clarence Huling, Shirley High and John J. Bryant were particularly helpful in locating "lost boys" of their respective times; and we are deeply indebted to Mrs. John Walsh, who proved a mine of useful information. By the time the work was concluded, we must admit that in regard to alumni we heartily echoed the sentiments of the little girl mentioned by June Provines, who after studying penguins at school, wrote in her report: "I have learned more about penguins than I care to know."

The records of the school were not kept accurately before 1880, which represents the first class graduating under Mr. Schobinger's regime, nor was a catalogue or student-roll kept. Therefore, although this is the seventy-fifth anniversary number of the Review, the notes will cover only the sixty years from 1880 to 1940.

What conclusions, if any, can be drawn from this survey of Harvard School boys over a period of sixty years, in relation to school, college, and private or business life?

One striking fact is the ever increasing tendency of Harvard School boys to obtain the greater part of their preparatory education here, and to complete their high school work with us. In looking over the attendance records of the past twenty-five years, we find very many boys who have spent ten, eleven or twelve years in the school. In a recent graduating class of fifteen, eight had had their entire education with us. A "Ten Year Club" would have a large membership. This was not the case in the early years, and up to about 1920, when many boys went East to Exeter, Andover, Hill, St. Mark's or St. Paul's for their junior and senior years. Now many boys come from other schools to spend their last two years at Harvard and, in very many cases, to take a postgraduate year before entering college. For the past fifteen years we have never been without one or two postgraduates.

Another striking fact is the wider spread of the school population, made possible by the development of good roads and automobile transportation. In former days the school drew from a purely local field; now it draws not only from Kenwood and Hyde Park, but also from the South Shore district; and about thirty-five "Beverly Hill Billies" make the trip each day. For several years we had three boys from Palos Park, two from East Chicago, one from La Grange, and one from Evanston. One Beverly family has the travel record; for the two Ranney boys have together covered approximately 75,000 miles going back and forth to school, with 9,000 miles to go before they finish.

In regard to choice of college and the shift away from the East several factors have been at work, chief among them the development of good mid-western schools like the University of Chicago and the state-owned universities of Wisconsin, Michigan and Illinois. In the last ten years, of course, economic changes have been the predominant factor in the drop of registration in Eastern colleges. In compiling statistics we have compared the first twenty-five years from 1880-1905 with the second twenty-five years from 1905-1930, and have considered the third group, 1930-40 separately.

In the first group twenty-two American colleges and universities are represented, plus several European ones—the Beaux-Arts in Paris, the Universities of Munich, Leipzig and Oxford. Yale takes a preponderant first place, with an attendance of 39% of our men; Harvard is second with 15%; Chicago ranks third, with 9%; and Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Princeton tie for fourth, with 5%. After them come Cornell, Dartmouth and Northwestern (Law). Seventeen per cent did not go to college. The second group includes thirty American colleges, with two European ones—the Beaux-Arts and the University of Grenoble. Yale still holds first place, but has slipped to 20%; Chicago has crept up to second place with 18%; Harvard is third, with 8%; Dartmouth, Michigan and Illinois tie for fourth, with 6½%; then come Wisconsin, Pennsylvania (Wharton School), Alabama, Princeton and Cornell. Six per cent did not go to college. In the "depression" group, registration for Eastern colleges stops with the suddenness of the crash itself, and Chicago jumps easily to first place with 40%. Eleven per cent did not go to college, and the colleges represented show greater extension in geographical distribution as well as in number. Of the thirty-seven colleges, many appear for the first, or almost the first time, among them Beloit, Carleton, Lawrence, Hobart, Hamilton, Kenyon, Oberlin, N. Carolina, S. Dakota, Iowa and Carnegie. Of the Eastern colleges, Dartmouth, Massachusetts Institute, Harvard, Amherst, Cornell, Brown, and U. S. Naval Academy are still represented, but in small numbers; and Yale has disappeared. During the last fifteen years, Dartmouth has been the favorite eastern college. Of our 20 boys attending Dartmouth during this time, five have won Phi Beta Kappa honors. Our most recent M. I. T. man last year ranked among the first five of the Freshman class. Of our two men now at Harvard, one has won scholastic honors and is on the football team; both entered on honor scholarships.

We find that our alumni live in twenty-eight states of the Union, plus Canada and Hawaii, and in four foreign countries,—France, England, Italy and Egypt. Their occupations cover the whole field of business and professional life, and include, besides the more obvious ones, those of editor, publisher, interior decorator, industrial designer, oil geologist, brewmaster, chemist, tanner, trapper, rancher, artist and writer, with one bishop and one judge. In listing their occupations in order of frequency, we have lumped under "finance" bankers, brokers, auditors, estate managers, trustees, investment counsels and dealers in securities; under "Fine Arts," architects, interior decorators, composers, artists, writers, and editors. "Education" includes teachers and librarians; "Engineering" includes civil, aeronautical, naval and electrical engineering and geological and chemical research.

The banking-investment field still holds first place in both, as the frequently recurring addresses—231 S. La Salle and 208 S. La Salle indicate. We became so familiar with one address especially,—175 W. Jackson, that we really considered working a little blackmail on its owner; for if we induced all Harvard School men to move elsewhere, the building would immediately go into bankruptcy. Lack of time prevented our carrying out this little plan.

From these same groups, we have drawn other statistics which may be interesting. In taking the first two hundred men of each group, we find that in the first group 11% are unmarried; of those who are married, 3% are divorced, and there are two children per family. In the second group 15% are unmarried; of those who are married, 9% are divorced, and there are 1.7 children per family. As many younger families are still incomplete, the difference is not great, and the .3 child will probably be picked up by the time another bulletin is issued. In the first group there are twenty families with four children, two with five, and one each with six and seven. The second group has seven families with four children, one with five and one with six, and has three families with twins. Although there are more larger families in the first group, there are also more childless couples than in the second.

The question on the blank, "Do you now have more sympathy than you used to for your parents (or teachers)?" was put in just for fun, to see what the boys would say. The comments were amusing. Some of the remarks are: "Definitely!" — "I should say so." — "And how!" — "With knowledge comes understanding, therefore sympathy." — "I always did have sympathy with both." — "Being both parent and teacher myself, I should say, 'Decidedly'." Others, having a chance to get even with teachers at last, frankly answered: "No," or "With parents, yes; teachers, no." And one man said: "After paying all the bills, I think I need the sympathy."

In length of boy-year attendance, there are several interesting figures. The eight Mason boys spent 72 years in the school, the six Hamills, 47 years; the eight Burnhams, 27 years; the four Reams, 30 years; more recently, the five Barnards 21 years; and the grand total of the Kirchheimer families was 74 years for eight boys. Schobingers of two generations have been in the school 48 years as pupils, and 82 years as teachers.

In a rapidly growing city like Chicago, shifts of population are constantly occurring, and there is little stability of domicile. Population necessarily becomes less homogeneous. Many of our alumni who represented early Chicago have moved to the far northern suburbs. It is obvious that, considering the shift in population and the low birth rate, we can not depend upon our alumni to replenish the school,—although there is a surprisingly large second generation list. We are proud of the part which our alumni have played in the development of Chicago, and of the traditions which they have established. But our school can not live on traditions alone. The one tradition upon which it can exist is the one which was established early in the history of the school,—that of earnestness of purpose, simplicity of school life, and sound education founded upon sound principles. And so, with a school population representing less wealth than at some periods in the past, we have fewer evils resulting from too much money, fewer spoiled children, fewer spoiled parents, and a minimum of disciplinary problems.

And now, before beginning the roll call of the classes, we wish to thank all those who have helped by advice or personal work to issue this bulletin. We are grateful for all the kind words you have written in your letters, for the memories you have aroused. You can not possibly know how much pleasure your letters gave, and we wish we could have answered them at once. For, in spite of the trials and tribulations of school work, in spite of examinations, and the whims and vagaries of teachers, we are sure that most of you remember school days as happy days; and in this mellow mood we invite you to look into the past which has so rapidly become the present.

WHEN "TARZAN" WENT TO HARVARD

by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

Old

Because I attended Harvard School sometime between the Pliocene and Pleistocene eras, Miss Schobinger has suggested that I write a little article for the School Annual and call it Before the Birth of Tarzan. I think Pre-Glacial Reminiscences would be an apter title. 1888 must seem as far back in the dim and distant past to you boys as the last glacial period did to me when I was your age. It seems a long way back to me, too; and I am having a dickens of a time recalling much of anything about it; but, nevertheless, it was in 1888 that I entered the old Harvard School at 21st Street and Indiana Avenue, where my brother, Coleman, had been a student for a year. I was never a student—I just went to school there.

I lived over on the West Side where everybody made his money in those days and then moved to the South Side to show off. I kept my pony in a livery stable on Madison Street west of Robey Street (the name of which has since been changed, I understand, to that of some Polish politician); and in good weather I either drove or rode to school. In inclement weather, I took the Madison Street horse-car to Wabash, a cable-car to 18th Street, and another horse-car to school. Sometimes, returning from school, I used to run down Madison Street from State Street to Lincoln Street, a matter of some three miles, to see how many horse-cars I could beat in that direction. It tires me all out even to think of it now. I must have been long on energy, if a trifle short on brains.

I cannot recall much about my classmates. Mancel Clark, Bennie Marshall, and I came over to Harvard together from Miss Coolie's Maplehurst School for Girls on the West Side—and were we glad to escape that blot on our escutcheons! There had been a diphtheria epidemic in the public schools the previous year, and our fond parents had prevailed upon Miss Coolie to take us in. As I recall it, there was no other private school on the West Side at that time. If we were glad to get away from Miss Coolie's Maplehurst School for Girls, it was probably nothing to Miss Coolie's elation at being rid of us. I'll bet the old girl turned handsprings. She got rid of William Carpenter Camp at the same time, but I can't recall that he came to Harvard School. The Dads of some of you will remember Billy Camp.

Bennie Marshall and I used to sneak down to the breakwater and smoke cubeb cigarettes and feel real devilish. I imagine we even chewed gum, too. He became a very famous Chicago architect. I can see him now sitting at his desk drawing pictures and chewing his tongue when he should have been studying.

Mancel Clark and I went to Andover after we left Harvard School. We looked so much alike that when I was late reporting my return from Boston, Mancel used to go to the Registrar's office and report it for me; then everyone was happy, including the Registrar.

At Harvard School I studied Greek and Latin because someone (Miss Schobinger says it was Mr. Grant) believed that they should be taught before English grammar was taken up; then I went to Andover and studied Greek and Latin all over again; so, having never studied English, I conceived the brilliant idea of taking up writing as my profession. Perhaps, had I studied English grammar, I would have known better; but then there would have been no Tarzan, and I might still be selling leadpencil sharpeners.

There should be a moral to this. Perhaps it is that you should not smoke cubeb cigarettes.

This class had only two graduates, and is still intact. Allison Armour (Yale 1884), who has made many trips of exploration in Greece and Central America, has now retired to 340 Park Avenue, New York. The other half of the class is Robert Hamill (Yale 1884), the first of the famous Hamill family to enter the school. He lives at Hinsdale and is president of the Lyon Company, real estate, at 116 South Michigan Avenue. He has four children, all married.

News of 1881 is lacking.

Simeon B. Chapin, in school from 1878-1882, is a stockbroker at 111 Broadway, New York. He lives at 444 Fifth Avenue, and has four children. William H. Cowles (Yale 1887) publishes the Morning Spokesman Review in Spokane, Washington, and lives at 2602 West Second Avenue. Camillo von Klenze (Harvard 1886), was for several years past professor of American Literature and Cultural Relations at the University of Munich, but returned to the United States to live a few years ago. Mail will reach him c/o National City Bank, N. Y. George A. Seaverns, Jr., who attended the school from 1878-1881, has retired to Nokomis, Florida, for the winter, and lives at 370 Westminster Road, Lake Forest in the summer. His two sons attended the school.

1883

Arthur Meeker (Yale '86) is actively engaged in business in Chicago at 233 W. Jackson, as president of the Arcady Farms Milling Co. and chairman of the National Aluminate Company. His eyes have a twinkle that make his stories of Harvard pranks sound most natural and likely. We have no news of John E. Doane.

1884

The Yale Directory of 1940 gives the address of Frank W. Wentworth (Yale 1887) at 1448 Lake Shore Drive. We have had no response from him.

CLASS of 1886

1885

Oren E. Taft (Yale 1889) has retired from banking and lives at Watch Hill, Rhode Island. Caryl Young has retired also and lives at 936 Sheridan Road, Lake Forest. He has one son who once attended the school.

1886

Frederick Clay Bartlett lives at Whitehall, Beverly, Massachusetts. Eugene Rockwell Pike (Yale 1890, Northwestern Law 1892) lives at 2430 Lake View Avenue and manages the Pike estate in offices at 6 North Michigan Avenue. His winter home is at Boca Grande, Florida. Benton Sturges (MIT 1890) lives at Lake Geneva and commutes to Chicago for his real estate business at 105 West Monroe. Max Baird lives at Le Port, Sark, in the Channel Islands, England. Wallace Fairbank lives at Cold Springs Arbor, New York. Charles H. Hamill (Yale 1890 LLB Northwestern 1893), one of the best friends the Harvard School ever had and well known in Chicago for his civic and musical interests, is actively carrying on his law practice at 105 West Monroe.

1887

Kenneth Brown and his wife Demetra Vaka live quietly and write busily at 40 East Huron Street, Chicago, in the winter, and motor East in spring. We hear that the golf game is improving. Murry Nelson (Harvard 1891) is busy with his law practice and lives at 44 East Elm Street. He has a son and two daughters. Joseph E. Otis (Yale 1890) has retired from active work but keeps his office in the city at 80 West Monroe and lives at 1415 Astor Street. Charles E. Walker lives at Woodholm, Manchester, Massachusetts. John B. Drake had the misfortune of breaking his leg this year in an automobile accident, but has now recovered. He lives at 1235 Astor Street. Archibald John Frederick MacBean (Yale 1891) has retired from the practice of law, and after spending most of the past sixteen years in Switzerland, France, Belgium and Holland, has been living in Glengarry County, Ontario. His home address is Highland Park, Ill. We have not heard from Clarence C. Chapman. George H. Webster lives at Colorado Springs. Ralph C. Otis (Yale 1891) lives at 2350 Lincoln Park West and has retired from business. Lawrence Heyworth (Yale 1890) has retired from his contracting and building business and lives at 7651 South Shore Drive. His son of the same name, honor graduate of the school in the class of 1938, is now at Annapolis. Ira P. Younglove (Yale 1891) lives at 10226 S. Hoyne Avenue. He has retired from business.

1888

Burton Holmes broke his leg on the Mannerheim line in Finland last summer, but gave his lectures from a wheel chair with his usual verve. The pupils of the school were his guests at Orchestra Hall in March. Rudolph Wieser Holmes (Harvard 1892, Rush 1893), Emeritus Professor of Gynecology at Rush and on the staff of Passavant Hospital, has now retired to live at University, Virginia. Stephen Moore Wirts (Ecole des Beaux Arts, Paris, 1900) received his diploma in architecture in France. He is now living at 899 Edison Avenue, Detroit, where he is treasurer of the Aulsbrook Co., manufacturers of furniture. (News has just come of Mr. Wirts' death in April as these notes went to press.) Mitchell D. Follansbee (Harvard 1892) is a mine of information about Harvard University alumni. He carried on his law practice at 135 South LaSalle Street. His five children are married.

John Jay Abbott, Vice President of the Continental Illinois Bank, lives in the old home at 3224 South Michigan Avenue. Herbert W. Hamlin (Yale S 1892, Law 1894) is an attorney at law at Greenwich, Connecticut. His address is Stanwich Road, Greenwich. He has one son and one daughter. One brother, George, was a grand opera singer of note, and the other, Robert Austin Hamlin, studied at the Ecole des Beaux Arts. Both attended the school many years ago. Frank S. Hibbard is chairman of the board of Hibbard Spencer Bartlett Co., at 211 East North Water Street. He lives at 1301 Astor Street. Clarence G. Huling has retired from active business and divides his time between his home at Hempstead, New York and that at 6000 Camino de la Costa, La Jolla, California. He has three sons. Carl Horton Pierce (Harvard 1893) has gone deep into metaphysics, and is president of the William James Society at 34 West 37th Street in New York. He lives at 133 West 95th Street and is president of the Remotrol Company. He has a son and a daughter. Robert Allerton (Royal Academy of Munich), one of the outstanding patrons of the Art Institute of Chicago, still gives his occupation as a farmer in Monticello, Illinois; but his home address at Lauai Kai Koloa Kanai, T. H. sounds more alluring. Robert K. Warren, Treasurer of the Morton Salt

Company, is a neighbor at 10751 So. Hoyne Avenue in Morgan Park. His three children are married, and he has eight grandchildren. Charles Burrall Pike (Harvard 1893) is best known to Chicagoans for his civic interest and the fact that he is president of the Chicago Historical Society. It is due largely to his efforts that the society has its beautiful new building in Lincoln Park.

Charles Cheney Hyde (Yale 1895, Harvard 1898, LLD Northwestern 1924) lives at 1035 Park Avenue, New York, and is professor of International Law at Kent Hall, Columbia University. He has one son and one daughter. Leonard J. Mandel (Yale 1893) is actively engaged at Mandel Brothers, and lives at 5555 Sheridan Road. John Crosby Neely (Princeton 1894) lives at the Princeton Club, 39 E. 39th St., New York. He is office manager of LaBranche & Co. on the New York Stock Exchange. He is unmarried. Theodore A. Shaw, Ex. '90, (Yale 1892) is a dry goods commission merchant at 323 South Franklin Street and lives at 1130 Lake Shore Drive. Bruce Clark (Yale 1898) has retired from the New York Stock Exchange to live at Bay Point Park, Sarasota, Florida.

1891

Benjamin C. Allen (Yale 1895) is a trustee of the Benjamin Allen Estate, and President of Benjamin Allen & Co., wholesale jewelers. He lives at 1444 North State Parkway. Walter S. Brewster (Yale 1895), known to us chiefly as a patron of art in Chicago, has retired from active business. John J. Bryant (U. S. Naval Academy, 1896, Yale 1898) lives in Wheaton and is active as a stock broker in the Rookery. We owe the picture of the class of 1891 to Shirley T. High (Yale 1895), who has been very ill for a year, but recovered sufficiently to take a trip to Mexico in the winter of 1940. He has retired from law practice to devote himself to fine photography, and has pictures in all big exhibitions. Julian S. Nolan (Yale 1895) spends most of his time in California, though he still keeps an office at 175 West Jackson. Harry Farnum has offices at 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, and lives in Connecticut. Charles H. Pajeau has recovered from a serious airplane accident of a year or more ago. He has been working hand in glove with Santa Claus for many years, making toys for the younger generation at the "Toytinkers" in Evanston. John A. Bloomington, ex '91, (Michigan 1896) is an attorney at law at 160 North LaSalle Street. He has one daughter. His home address is at 1209 Astor Street. Harold F. McCormick, ex '91 (Princeton 1895) was at the school in 1885-86. He is Chairman of the Board of the International Harvester Co., but spends most of his time at his home at 1000 North Crescent Drive, Beverly Hills, California.

Any visitor to Sioux City, Iowa, is struck by the beauty of the Badgerow building, and finds it belongs to Egbert Badgerow, who has a law degree but spends his time managing his extensive properties. One daughter is married in China, another studying music in Chicago. His winter home is at Daytona Beach. (Just as this material went to press we heard of Mr. Badgerow's death.) John A. Farwell (Ex. 1892, Andover 1892, Yale 1895) has retired to the Los Angeles Country Club, Beverly Hills, California. Roy B. Harper (U. S. Military Academy) is a Colonel of the U. S. Army retired, and now lives at 4730 Kimbark Avenue. "Benny" Marshall, who was the architect for the Edgewater Beach, the Drake, the Blackstone, and many other well known Chicago buildings, did his first architectural drawings on all the margins of his school books. His home address is The Drake. Daniel J. Schuyler (Northwestern 1896) is actively carrying on his law practice, with which his son Daniel is associated, in the firm of Schuyler and Hennessey at 231 South LaSalle Street. He lives at 1500 Lake Shore Drive, and has in the last few years three times become a grandfather. His sons, William (1927) and Daniel (Ex. 1930), both took Phi Beta Kappa honors at Dartmouth. Harry Lee Taft has retired to the banker's paradise, Santa Barbara. Norman Williams (Yale 1896) lives at Woodstock, Vermont, having retired from his manufacturing business. Albert A. Sprague (Harvard 1898) lives at 1130 Lake Shore Drive, and has offices at 72 W. Adams, in the Commonwealth Edison building. His two sons are managing his wholesale grocery business, Sprague, Warner & Co., which furnishes the school its groceries. The Colonel is probably better known to Chicagoans for his philanthropic and civic work. His three children are married.

1893

The two members of this class from whom we have heard are both physicians,—Dr. C. Franklin Leavitt (Carleton 1897), who lives in Wilmette and has offices at 58 East Washington Street; and Edward Clark Streeter (Yale 1898), who has retired from his medical practice and teaching and lives at Stonington, Connecticut. Dr. Streeter has three sons and a daughter. Julian Mason, ex '93, lives at Glen Head, Long Island, New York, and is one of the editors of a New York newspaper. He has two children.

We heard of Wallace D. Kimball, who was "lost," through his nephew, Sears Wait, a recent graduate. Mr. Kimball is first vice-president in charge of production at the Standard Knapp Corporation, Long Island, New York, and lives at 3439 87th Street, Jackson Heights. He has one daughter and three granddaughters. His summer home is Tall Timber, at Orange, Virginia. Walter G. Zimmerman (MIT 1898) lives in Hinsdale and is the contracting manager of the American Bridge Company, and a member of the Chicago Engineers Club, American Society of Civil Engineers, and the Western Society of Engineers. Walter Byron Smith (Yale 1899) is a director of the Northern Trust Co. Bank. He lives in Lake Forest. Roy McWilliams has for many years been an American consul in the south of France, department of Basses Pyrenees. John W. Walsh, formerly in the railway business, now lives at Bloomington, Illinois. Francis E. Drake (Yale 1899) lives at Stalheim Farm, Rye Beach, New Hampshire. He has three children and has just celebrated his fortieth wedding anniversary. He spent nine of his early years in the school. De Witt Wheeler Buchanan, ex '94, (Purdue 1898) is president of the Old Ben Coal Corporation, 231 South La Salle Street, Chicago. He lives in Lake Forest and has two daughters besides the son who once attended the Harvard School.

One of the "old boys" unearthed last summer via The Saturday Evening Post, was Edgar Rice Burroughs, the small boys' favorite. He is one of the few men in this country who has a post office of his own, Tarzana, California. He has been kind enough to write us the little article which appears in this bulletin. His home address, when not at his ranch, is 719 North Rexford Drive, Beverly Hills, California. The first of the three Lockett boys is Oswald (Yale 1899), who lives at 66 Essex Road, Winnetka, has two sons, and has for thirty years been either owner or president of the Lockett Company and manufacturing representative of Grocery Products. One of our teaching alumni is Morton A. Mergentheim (Chicago 1899, MA 1900, Northwestern, LL B 1903), who was a professor of Law first at John Marshall Law School and then at Northwestern until 1932. He carries on his law practice at 38 South Dearborn. He has one son and one daughter and lives at 411 Fullerton Parkway. Robert E. Stone (Yale 1898), President and Treasurer of Robert E. Stone & Co., Insurance, 33 Broad Street, Boston, has three children, and lives at 21 Kilsyth Road, Brookline, Massachusetts. He is a major in the U.S. Marine Reserve. Leon A. Werthheimer sells wholesale seeds at 206 Cavin Street, Ligonier, Indiana. He has two daughters, and lives at 610 South Main Street. Albert M. Barrell has retired from the investment business and lives at the Ambassador Hotel. We know Bruce Borland at school as the President of the Glenwood Manual Training School to which our boys contribute. He has his real estate offices at 105 South La Salle Street. Solomon A. Smith (Yale 1899) follows in the footsteps of his father as president of the Northern Trust Company. He is also Treasurer of the United Charities. He lives in Lake Forest, and his four children are married.

Ayres Boal (Harvard 1900), of Ayres Boal and Ayres Boal Jr., real estate, lives at 701 Sheridan Road, Winnetka. He has three sons and a daughter. Lewis Lee Losey (Chicago 1900, Lake Forest 1900) is a lawyer on West Monroe Street and lives at 5034 Blackstone Avenue. He was married in 1933. Edwin Rothschild is a stockbroker at 134 South La Salle Street and lives at 2142 North Lincoln Parkway. He has two sons. Laurence Hamill (Chicago 1900), who spent ten years in the school, lives at 1787 Crawford Road, Cleveland, Ohio. Maurice Mason (Yale 1901) is an investigator of patents; he lives at 7301 Sheridan Road. His brother Norman is on the Philadelphia Transcript, Philadelphia. Bruce D. Smith lives in the East, or in Coral Gables, Florida. Samuel N. Harper (Chicago 1902), whom some old boys remember as "Ule," has for many years occupied the chair of Russian at the University of Chicago. He is unmarried and lives at 5728 Woodlawn Avenue. William W. Dixon (Harvard 1900, LL B 1903) is a lawyer, at 105 South La Salle Street in the firm of Rawlins and Dixon. S. J. T. Straus, Ex. 1896 is the head of the Straus Securities, 135 South La Salle. His son, Frederick (Harvard School 1922) is in business with him. Mr. Straus spent the winter in Florida.

1897

If we ever turn up in Syracuse, New York, it will be to get a meal cooked by the gourmet and cookbook collector, Robert Collyer Hosmer (Cornell 1902). Besides indulging in this hobby, he makes furniture by hand, does photography, and has time to be president of the Excelsior Insurance Company. He has three sons, one still in college at Dartmouth. Eugene S. Mandel (Dartmouth 1902), another of the Mandel Brothers, lives at 357 Moraine Road, Glencoe, and is in the investment business at 208 South La Salle Street. He has two sons. Russell Mott, Ex. 1897, (Yale 1901, Harvard Law 1904) has retired from his law practice to live at Charlottesville, Virginia. He has three sons and one daughter. Frank H. Silverthorne, Ex. 1897, lives in New York and is the inventor of devices for sealing bottles. (Don't get excited—just ink bottles.) Herbert Paul Zimmermann (Chicago 1901) is vice president of R. R. Donnelley & Sons on East 22nd Street, and lives at Geneva, Illinois. He has one son and two daughters. Francis E. Baldwin is a lawyer and lives in Evanston. Chauncey Blair Borland (Yale 1901), lives on Lake View Avenue. His three daughters are married. He has offices in the Borland Building, 105 South La Salle Street with his brother and manages the Borland Estate.

We have rather complete news of this class. Frederic Burnham (Yale 1902), who lives in Winnetka and is well known in legal circles, is one of the directors of the School Building Company. Homer L. Dixon (Yale 1901) is vice president and Secretary of the Dixon Transfer Company. He lives at 417 Barry Avenue and breaks Harvard alumni records by being the father of seven children, one boy and six girls. Kenneth Lockett (MIT 1902) is an engineer, has offices in The Merchandise Mart, is unmarried, and lives at 4440 Beacon Street. Theodore Peyton Murphy, Ex. 1898, lives at 7527 Stewart Avenue, and has retired from business. You may recognize him in the Banjo Club picture on

"Mon" Sturges and John G. Shortall

Hosmer & Co., Insurance, at 175 West Jackson Blvd. He has three children. Clarence K. Peck (Yale 1901) is an insurance broker at 175 West Jackson, and lives at 40 West Schiller Street.

James C. Ames (Princeton 1903) is president of Ames Emerich & Co., at 105 South La Salle Street. He lives at 1500 Lake Shore Drive. E. I. Cudahy (Harvard 1903) is a publisher of Law books on East Ohio Street; he has four children. Robert Llewellyn Henry (Chicago AB JD) is our only Rhodes Scholar. At Oxford he received an honorary degree given to few Americans—among them Roosevelt and Taft. For many years he has been judge of the mixed court at Alexandria, Egypt. His two sons had their schooling in this country. Judge Henry taught Law at Oxford for four years, and a few years ago was visiting professor at Chicago. Emanuel Arnstein (University of Leipzig 1900) has retired from business and lives at East Orange, New Jersey. He has two children. Uri B. Grannis (Princeton 1903) is an investment counsel at 134 South La Salle Street, and lives at 550 Rosemary Road in Lake Forest. He has three sons. Alfred W. Stern, Ex. 1899, lives at 615 Crescent Court, Highland Park, has retired from active business, and now manages his estate in offices at 231 South La Salle Street. He has three children. George B. McKillip (Chicago 1901) is the well known veterinarian of McKillip Veterinary College on North Clark Street, and lives at 5302 University Avenue. Joseph M. Cudahy lives at a number very popular with Harvard School boys—1500 Lake Shore Drive. His business address is 208 W. Washington. Thomas H. Sidley is a lawyer and lives at 1501 Wesley Avenue, Evanston.

Raymond Burnham (Yale 1903) lives at 930 East 45th Street. He is an engineer, and has a daughter and two sons, one of whom attended the school a few years ago. Charles S. Dewey, Ex. 1900, (Yale 1904) left the school in the early grades. After being financial advisor to the government of Poland, he came back to continue his real estate business in Chicago at 231 South La Salle Street. He lives at 1507 North State Parkway, and has two sons and two daughters. Alfred E. Hamill, Ex. 1900, (Yale 1905) lives in Lake Forest. He is a banker at 208 South La Salle Street, but is also known as a poet and connoisseur of art. He has three children and lives at 115 East Illinois Road, Lake Forest. James G. Kellogg (Cornell 1905) has retired from active work in the Kellogg Switchboard Company and lives at 80 Locust Road, Winnetka. He has two children. He still remembers the good old pre-vitamin age at 21st and Indiana, with Charley Dewey, Jimmy Ames and Walter Rosenbaum, when lunch was just bread butter and milk. Charles Forest LeLand (Chicago 1904) is the president of the American Mutual Life Insurance Company at 1 Park Avenue, New York. He has two boys and one girl, and lives at 80 Parker Avenue, Maplewood, New Jersey. Many men will remember his father, Samuel Leland, who taught for so many years at Harvard School. Mr. Leland died late in 1939 in the East at the age of eighty-three. Paul H. Mayer, (Princeton 1905, MIT 1909) lives in Albany, New York, and has charge of the state unemployment bureau. He has three children. Walter V. Peck, Ex. 1900, (Yale 1904) has a chicken farm at Largo, Florida. Abraham K. Selz (Yale 1903) lives at 20 Cedar Street and is a manufacturer. Unfortunately (for Harvard School) his four children are all girls. Jesse A. Rothschild, Ex. 1900, (Andover 1900) lives at 40 Cedar Street. He is a stockbroker at 141 West Jackson. His son, Fuller, spent eight years at the school, then went to Andover for his senior year. Robert C. Ream, Ex. 1900, (Princeton 1904) is president of the American Re-Insurance Company. He lives at 770 Park Avenue, New York, and pleasantly remembers old Harvard days. He has two sons. Louis C. Dillman still manages the American Book Company in New York, and Henry E. Daniels lives at Shaker Heights, Ohio. Harold Keith, Ex. 1900, has retired to California. Harold E. Wiley, Ex. 1900 (Yale 1903) is a broker on 105 West Adams Street and lives at 220 East Walton Place. We have no news of Alexander Hanson nor Walter M. Johnson. Howard LeVally lives at 6400 Kenwood Avenue.

Raymond E. Daniels (Harvard 1905) is a retail and wholesale coal dealer. He is very much tied up with Harvard School, as his son, Raymond E. Daniels, Jr., was a recent graduate, and his daughter, Helen, married a Harvard School boy, Walter Monroe. Edmund P. Cobb (Harvard 1905) lives at 11131 South Bell Avenue, Chicago, and has four children. He is a salesman. George Carrington Mason is our only shipbuilder, in the Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co., Newport News, Virginia. He is an Apprentice Instructor in the shipyards, teaches drafting, is a lecturer on nature and Virginia historical subjects, is the forester at Mariners' Museum Park, and was a naval architect in the World War. He has three colleges to his credit, Yale, MIT, and North Carolina State College. Oscar McPherson, Ex. 1901 (Princeton 1906), lives at Brook House at the Lawrenceville School, Lawrenceville, New Jersey, where he is one of the outstanding secondary school librarians of the country. He heads a staff of four, and holds that well-equipped libraries are as important to schools as facilities for athletics. More power to him! Norman P. Ream (Mich. Mil. Acad. 1802), whose father, Norman B. Ream was for many years a trustee of the school, has retired from business and lives at Porchuck Road, Greenwich, Connecticut. He has one son and a daughter. His brother Edward, Ex. 1901, lives in Versailles, Kentucky. Milton B. Wilson (Yale 1908) retired to Santa Barbara after being assistant treasurer of Wilson Brothers for many years. He has four children. Harold Zeiss (Princeton 1907) is unmarried, and is a nurseryman at Deerfield, Illinois. Can anyone give us news of Oscar W. Johnson, Charles B. Keeler, or Philip H. Shaffner?

Hayden Harris (Chicago 1907) has retired from banking to live in Leesburg, Virginia. He has three children. Charles W. Lobdell (Yale 1905) has his office in the Board of Trade and sells investment securities. He has one boy, and lives at 1183 Scott Avenue, Winnetka. Mason Phelps (Yale 1906) is the president of the Pheoll Manufacturing Company at 5700 Roosevelt Road. He lives in Lake Forest and has one son and one daughter. "Jimmy" Ralston lives at 145 Roosevelt Avenue, Flushing, L.I. William Schobinger (Kent College of Law 1908) lives at 45 Circle Drive, Hastings-on-Hudson, New York. He is attorney for the London Guarantee and Accident Company, 55 Fifth Avenue. He has one fifteen-year old son. George Schobinger (Chicago 1905, MIT 1908) is engineering manager of the Zimmermann Day Co., Philadelphia, and lives at 301 Swarthmore Avenue, Swarthmore, Pennsylvania. His wife and four children returned from a year in Europe just after war broke out. His book, "Business Methods in the Building Field" (McGraw Hill) is just off the press. Lawrence Weaver (Andover 1904)-(Yale Ex. 1908) lives at 415 Dempster Street, Evanston, is an investment counsel, and has one son. His only daughter died a few years ago. John Heath Wood (Wisconsin 1906), president of the Standard Varnish Works at 2600 South Federal Street, says he was "kicked out" of Harvard School. We don't know about that, but hard feelings, if any, are forgotten since his daughter recently married an ardent Harvard fan, Peter Jordan of the class of 1936. Frederic Ullman is a lawyer at 135 South La Salle and lives in Winnetka. He is unmarried. George A. Paddock (Virginia 1906) is an investment banker at 120 South La Salle Street, and lives in Evanston. He has one son. Bruce D. Smith (Yale 1906) lives in New York or in his winter home in Florida. He has three children. We have not heard from Henry Sibley Putnam (Cornell 1907). Lucius O. Meacham, Ex. 1902 (St. Paul, Andover 1902), (Yale 1906), after being engaged for many years in public service corporation work, has retired to Palo Alto, California. He tells how he entered Harvard School in the fall of 1892, just a few days after Marshall Field, Jr., shot the big owl from the tall steeple of the second Presbyterian Church across from the school yard. Paul Moore (Yale 1908, New York Law School 1911) left Chicago many years ago for New York. His business is finance at 48 Wall Street. He lives at Convent, New Jersey, and has two sons and two daughters. His brother Edward Small Moore lives at 250 Park Avenue, N.Y. Louis Marshall Ream, Ex. 1903, (Princeton 1908) has retired from business to live at 6 Olive Street, Providence, Rhode Island. He was married in 1929 and has one son and one daughter. He has recently become a member of the Board of Trustees of Rhode Island State College. His sister, Marian, who once also attended the school in Miss Heinrich's German class, and whom we shall therefore also consider as an alumna, is Mrs. Vonsiatsky, and lives at Rancho de la Osa, Sasabe, Arizona. Does anyone have news of Augustus Knight, or Howard Cassidy? We have had no response from Perry Keeney, who used to live at the Harvard Club, New York.

Everyone who goes to Estes Park in the summer knows Julian Hayden (Armour 1907) who is a real estate agent, owns land and cottages, and takes remarkable motion pictures of animals. The family lives the year round at Estes Park, where his two children go to school. Clarence Burnham (Yale 1906) is an engineer at 20 Wacker Drive, lives at 1017 East 45th Street, and has three children. Caleb Harlan Canby lives in Barrington, and has one son. He is a grain broker at 332 South La Salle Street. Carl Zeiss (Princeton 1907) is a lawyer, has three children, and lives in Winnetka. The Rt. Rev. Frank Elmer Wilson (Hobart 1907) is the Bishop of Eau Claire, Wisconsin. He has one child. He has written many books on religious subjects and was a chaplain in the 86th division AEF. Clarence F. Wiley (Cornell 1907) lives at 1320 North State Street, and is with the American Steel and Wire Company. The last we heard about Irving Shaffner was that he was a marine engineer at Hoboken, New Jersey. Does anyone have further news of him, or of Walter Dray, or George McAuliff?

Newton Farr (Cornell 1909) deals in real estate at 140 South Dearborn, lives at 4737 Woodlawn Avenue, and is prominent in the affairs of the Kenwood Church. He is unmarried. George S. LeVally (Yale and Chicago) is the one bachelor of the four LeVally brothers who attended the school. He is vice president of the Lincoln Engineering Company on South Michigan Avenue. Howard Linn, Ex. 1904, (Yale 1908) deals in real estate at 549 W. Washington Street, and lives in Lake Bluff. William W. Renshaw travelled in Europe for three years instead of going to college. He lives at 1320 North State Parkway, and has recently retired from his furniture business. His son Fred went to the Harvard School before he moved North and is now at the University of Chicago. Melville N. Rothschild, Ex. 1904, 1540 Lake Shore Drive, is president of the National Bond and Investment Company at 228 North La Salle Street. He has four children, two sons and two daughters. Clarence T. Seipp (Cornell 1908) is a graduate of Harvard School Kindergarten, and after the early grades went elsewhere. He is an investment counsel at 8 South Michigan Ave., and the father of two boys. Stanley M. Wiley lives near the school at 1136 E. 48th Street and his two daughters, before they married, used to be frequent guests at school dances. He is on the Board of Trade. Alvar R. Sutter lives at 827 Prospect Avenue, Winnetka, and is engaged in property management. He has two daughters. Irwin P. Zeisler (Chicago 1907, Northwestern Medical 1912) is a physician and assistant professor of dermatology at Northwestern Medical School. He has three sons, including a pair of twins. One is now studying for the ministry. Philip F. W. Peck (Yale 1908) is in the real estate business, has two sons, and lives at 190 North Sheridan Road. Walter O. Wilson lives in Connecticut. He has one son and one daughter. Issac Newton Perry, Ex. 1904 (Yale 1908) is a partner of Perry, Spencer & Co., investment banking, at 135 S. LaSalle Street. He lives at 9000 N. Michigan Avenue. Paul Lansing Veeder, Ex. 1904 (Yale S 1907) has retired from his manufacturing business and divides his time between his home on Long Island, N.Y. and his home at Pebble Beach, California. When at Yale he was a well-known football player, having perfected the forward pass.

Paul Albert (Dartmouth 1910) is the head of the well-known Albert Tegacher's Agency at 25 East Jackson. He has three children and lives at 209 Kenmore Avenue, Elmhurst. Harold C. Gifford, who lives at Highland Park, is an insurance broker at 175 West Jackson. Harold Foreman (Dartmouth 1909) has two sons. He lives in Glencoe. James C. Hutchins (Princeton 1909) is a partner in Mitchell Hutchins & Co., stockbrokers, at 231 South La Salle Street. He lives at 1450 Astor Street and has one son and two daughters. Harold Lockett (MIT 1910) lives at 516 Orchard Street, Winnetka. He is a salesman for H. H. Robertson in the London Guarantee Building. We are very glad to say that Dr. Selim McArthur (Yale 1908), (Rush 1910) has entirely recovered from his illness last year. He lives at 60 Scott Street and has two daughters. His offices are at 122 South Michigan and he is following his father's brilliant work as surgeon at St. Luke's hospital. Frederic O. Mason, Ex. 1905 (Yale 1909) is a partner of the law firm Miller Gorham Westcott & Adams at 1 North La Salle Street, and lives at 857 Ash Street, Winnetka. He has two sons. Stanley Morrill (Yale Law Ex. 1910) has two children, a son and a daughter. He is a stockbroker with E. A. Pierce, 105 West Adams Street, and lives in Lake Forest. Norman Weiss (Yale 1910) is unmarried. He lives in Barrington where he deals in real estate. Spalding Peck (Wisconsin 1906), who lives at Russell's Point, Ohio, is president and general manager of the Lake Gas Company. He was married in 1933 and has one son. Stuart Logan, Ex. 1905 (Yale 1908) has retired from business and lives at 209 Lake Shore Drive. John R. LeVally lives at 1129 E. 45th St.

Gerald Burnham (Yale S 1909, PhD 1911), fifth of the eight brothers, manufacturers cosmetics at the Burnham Company on South Parkway, and lives in Winnetka. He has four children. Eugene Cary (Chicago 1910, Rush 1912) lives at 179 Lake Shore Drive and is a physician and surgeon at 30 North Michigan Avenue. Alan C. Dixon, Ex. 1906, (Yale S 1909), lives at 1500 Lake Shore Drive. His real estate business is at 77 West Washington. John Greenebaum (Yale and Chicago) is unmarried. He is an investment banker at 38 South Dearborn Street. Richard H. Mabbatt (Yale 1910) lives in Lake Forest, and has just had the honor of being elected its mayor. His office is in the Board of Trade Building where he is president of the R. H. Mabbatt Co., dealing in commercial paper. He has one son and one daughter. John S. Miller (Harvard 1911, LLB 1914) has two daughters. He practices law at 134 South La Salle Street, in the firm of Taylor, Miller, Busch and Boyden. Glenn W. Traer manages the Greyhound Corporation at 141 West Jackson. He lives at 1500 Lake Shore Drive and has two children. John Weiss (Yale S 1919) has a lumber business in Augusta, Georgia, where he lives. He has two sons. Miner T. Ames (Princeton 1910, Illinois 1914) is hard to catch as he travels much of the time. He is a life underwriter. Louis C. Seaverns (Harvard 1910) is a stockbroker at 208 South La Salle Street, lives in Lake Forest, and has a fifteen-year old step-son at Taft School.

Robert A. Gardner (Yale 1912) is a stockbroker, at 231 South La Salle Street. He lives with his family of three children in Lake Forest. Stanley Harris (Yale 1912) is a banker at the Harris Trust. He lives on Fisher Lane, Winnetka and has four children. Carl G. Ortmayer (Yale S 1910) is a road builder and contractor in Milwaukee. He has three daughters. Eugene Hoyne de Bronkhart (Williams 1912) lives at Highland Road, Rye, New York. He is an investment banker with Nickerson & Co., 61 Broadway. Charles S. Traer (Yale 1910) is vice president and manager of production of Acme Steel, and lives at the South Shore Club. Walter H. Hildebrand (MIT Ex. 1911) now has a son, Walter Jr., a freshman at MIT, entering with honors from New Trier High School which the second son, Bobby attends. The family lives at Wilmette. Daniel D. Craft, Ex. 1907 (Dartmouth 1910), sells mortgage investments at 40 North Dearborn, and lives at 195 Ridge Avenue, Winnetka. He has two daughters. George A. Seaverns III has offices at 164 W. Jackson. Laurence Otis Wilson lives at 700 E. Rosemary Road, Lake Forest, and has offices at 230 N. Michigan Avenue. He has two daughters.

1908

The class of 1908 was one of the smallest in a decade and we have very little information from its members. Cyrus G. Hill, Ex. 1908 (Yale 1912), whose father taught in the school many years ago, is a consulting engineer at 105 West Adams. He has three daughters and lives at 28 Scott Street. We were glad to find John R. Winterbotham, Ex. 1908, (Yale 1912) who is president of John H. Winterbotham & Sons, manufacturers, with offices at 8 South Dearborn. He lives at 1238 North State, and has one son. We have no news of Lewis Foster Gifford, Henry W. Wright, Frank Baackes, or Lloyd Canby.

1909

In our last alumni bulletin we reported that we had lost Morton Rocha Hunter, and so we are doubly glad to say he has been found in Milwaukee, as president of the Hunter Tractor and Machinery Company. He has two sons. He was of the class of 1913 at Michigan in the engineering school, and Who's Who in engineering will tell you more about him. Theodore Philip Swift (Yale 1915) is a banker, lives in Lake Forest, and has three sons. Alfred K. Foreman (Dartmouth 1913) sells insurance on La Salle Street, has a son and two daughters, and lives in La Grange. Harold Burnham (Yale 1913) is district sales manager of the Chicago Wilmington and Franklin Coal Company at 332 South Michigan, and lives in Flossmoor, Illinois. Albert B. Dewey, Ex. 1909 (Yale 1912) lives at the Ritz in New York, is not in business, and has two children.

1910

George W. Blossom (Yale 1914) lives in Lake Forest, has two sons and two daughters, and is an insurance broker at 175 W. Jackson. Ivo Buddeke (Chicago 1914) of Ivo Buddeke & Co., Insurance, has four daughters, and two boys, one of whom is a recent graduate of Notre Dame, and the other a freshman at Northwestern. Donald B. Douglas (Princeton 1914) manufactures Quaker Oats. He lives at 980 Green Bay Road, Lake Forest, and has two children. Roderick Peattie, (Chicago 1910, Harvard PhD 1914) is a professor at Ohio State University, spent two years in the war in France, has numerous publications, and has taught or lectured at Williams, Northwestern, California, Clark, and Wisconsin, thus nobly upholding Peattie tradition. He has two sons and a daughter. Frank E. Selz (Yale 1913) lives in Glencoe and has two children, a boy and a girl. He is in the General American Transportation Company at 135 S. La Salle Street. Ernest Willrid Puttkammer (Princeton 1914, PhD Chicago 1917) is professor of Law at the University of Chicago and has taught many Harvard boys. He has one son and one daughter, both quite young. We have no news of Henry W. Barton or John Spry, although the Yale Directory of 1940 gives the latter's address at 70 Cedar Street.

1911

Julian Burnham (Yale 1916), known to his friends as "Julie," lives at Crystal Lake and is the business manager of E. Burnham, Inc. at 140 N. State Street. Eugene Schobinger (Illinois 1915) is a partner in the Lake States Engineering Company. His oldest son, Gene Jr. is a freshman at DePauw, the second, Charles, a sophomore at Harvard School; and he has a younger daughter. Both boys are taller than their father, who used to be considered tall; but times are changing. Arthur Leonard manufactures roofing paper at Wilmington, Illinois. He has one daughter. D. Harry Hammer maintains a discreet silence about his activities, which is more than he ever did at school. Bernard M. Douglas, Henry S. Churchill and Donovan Yeuell are "lost"—the first two somewhere in New York City.

Arthur A. Burrows, Ex. 1912 (Yale S 1915) lives in Lake Forest, is an insurance broker at the Insurance Exchange, and has two children. Henry Faurot, Ex. 1912, was at the Harvard School only in the early grades. He was graduated from Lawrenceville in 1912 and is now vice president of the Western Felt Works, at 4115 Ogden Ave. He has two sons and a daughter. Monroe Heath (Illinois 1916), known as "Monnie," is technical director of the Lilly Varnish Company in Indianapolis. He has two daughters, and lives at 5251 N. Delaware Ave., Indianapolis. Ernst Schmidt (Wisconsin 1917) is unmarried, deals in real estate at 38 S. Dearborn, and is very active in the Lake Geneva Yacht Club. He is also secretary of the Inland Yachting Association. We know nothing of Joseph Rosenberg, who used to be a tennis star.

Karl Baackes (Wisconsin 1916) lives in the vicinity of the school at 4824 Dorchester Avenue, and has three daughters. He is a salesman. Francis R. Blossom Ex. 1913 (Yale 1917) is an insurance broker, lives at 199 Lake Shore Drive, and has three children. Kenneth D. Clark (Wisconsin 1917) returned to Chicago a few years ago after a long absence in the West, and manufactures amusement devices at 222 E. Superior Street. He has one daughter, and two sons at school in the East. Harold Cudney (Pennsylvania 1917) is President of Cudney & Co., packers. He lives at the Webster Hotel, and his four daughters keep him busy. Dorothy was at kindergarten and in the early grades at Harvard a few years ago. Prentiss French (Williams 1917), Harvard M.L.A. 1921, better known as Penny, lives all-year-round at Bay Island, Sarasota, Fla., where, as a landscape architect, he improves on the beauties of nature, while his wife does fine residential architecture. That is what we call team-work. They have one small daughter. Frederic J. Greenebaum (Yale S 1916) is with the Roosevelt Coal Company at 1310 Altgeld Street, and lives in Highland Park. He has one son and one daughter. Irving Stanley Stone (Yale S 1916) runs the Boston Store in Milwaukee. He has two boys. His cousin, Irving Stone, is also in the same business. Edward F. Swift (Yale 1918) lives in Lake Forest and is executor of the Edward F. Swift estate. Morton Traer (Chicago 1917) no longer has long blonde locks over his brow; he is too "highbrow." Morton is a salesman, has two daughters, and is now living in Chicago. John D. Warfield Jr. (Princeton 1917) is in the Warfield Chocolate Company at 536 West 22nd Street, and lives in River Forest. He has two sons. His two nephews, Robert and Donald recently were graduated from Harvard. When we last heard of Harley Higbie (Wisconsin 1917) he was in Detroit, married, and had two sons. Abraham S. Hart (Michigan 1917) is with Hart Schaffner & Marx in an executive position (perhaps president? He doesn't say). He lives at 1718 S. Sheridan Road in Highland Park. His son Max is now learning the business from the bottom up. We know nothing of Harold Tearse (Yale S 1916). Augustus Maxwell, Ex 1913, (Wesleyan 1917) lives at Woodstock, Illinois, where he has a beautiful farm, Maxwellton. His two sons attend Todd School at Woodstock. He is the owner of the Maxwell Wallpaper Company at 1907 North Mendl Street.

1914

Roy Munger, Ex. 1914, (Chicago 1918) lives in La Grange and has three sons. We are all familiar with his name as financial editor of the Daily News. It was very good to hear from Howard Peabody, ex. 1914, Exeter 1916, who lives in Lake Forest, deals in real estate, and has two sons and two daughters. Jerry Weber (Yale 1917) is unmarried, and doesn't write letters, but we have tracked him down. He lives at the Sherwin Hotel, and is president of the H. L. and J. H. Weber Co., manufacturers of metal parts, at 565 West Washington. Charles Trego Prindeville (Harvard 1918) is in the cotton seed and soy bean mills of Swift & Co. He is a neighbor in Beverly Hills, and has one son and one daughter. Peter Jay Park (Illinois 1918) is very silent, as always, but we have discovered that he sells Fords in Rushville, Illinois, is married and has one child. Wellington Leavitt lives near the school, is unmarried. Albert Henry Veeder, Ex. 14 (Yale 1918) has remained faithful to the South Side, at 4824 Woodlawn Avenue. He practices law in offices at 33 S. Clark Street. We expect his son Albert Jr. now in school, to make a mark for himself at school.

1915-1920

Eastland Disaster . . . Chicago Chapter of American Red Cross organized . . . Navy Pier Completed . . . Motor coaches started . . . Free lunches in saloons prohibited . . . America enters war . . . 1915

No one that taught this class would ever have thought that it was going to produce four college professors, but one never can tell!

Arthur F. Abt (Chicago 1918, Johns Hopkins 1923) practices medicine with his father at 104 S. Michigan Avenue, teaches at medical school, lives at 4810 Kenwood Avenue, and has two children. Henry C. Bartholomay (Harvard 1919) has two sons and lives at 620 Spruce Street, Winnetka. He sells insurance most of the time at 175 W. Jackson, but went to the South Sea Islands last summer. Richard Gudeman (Harvard 1919, Law 1921) is a lawyer, at 77 W. Washington St., is unmarried, and lives at 5401 Cornell Ave. Frank C. Hoyt (MIT 1919), who used to work at all hours in the old barn laboratory at Drexel Boulevard, and later won fellowships and scholarships for study abroad, is now associate professor of physics at the University of Chicago. He has one son and one daughter, and lives at 1223 E. 57th Street. Lewis Linn McArthur (Yale 1919) is vice president of the Northern Trust Company, unmarried, and lives at 230 E. Delaware. Beside banking, his major interest is music. Ronald B. Levinson (Harvard 1919) is professor of philosophy at the University of Maine, Orono, Maine. He has a son and two daughters. J. Sanford Otis, Ex. 1915, (Yale 1919) lives at Libertyville, and is an investment banker at the Central Republic Company at 209 S. LaSalle Street. He is not married. Richard F. Uhlmann (Cornell 1919) has a son and two daughters, and lives in Highland Park. He deals in grain, elevator and export, at 141 W. Jackson. Herbert Rycroft is on the Board of Trade and lives on the South Shore. William Penn Huleatt (Col. Sch. of Mines 1921), once an "enfant terrible," has been for many years a professor of geology at the Colorado School of Mines, and carries on his field trips in the Rocky Mountains in the summer. We met him there unexpectedly a year ago. He is now engaged in mining and geological engineering, lives in Denver at 1905 Glencoe Street, and has two children. We have "lost" Hardin McLaughlin and Wallace Slaughter. Walter Mayer was badly gassed in the war. After a somewhat checkered career he has settled down to successful sheep ranching. He is happily married and lives at 134 East de Vargas Street, Santa Fe, New Mexico.

Robert Harvey Andrews, Ex. 1916 (Williams 1920) has retired to 645 S. Orange Grove Avenue, Pasadena. He has three sons. Frank T. Andrews, Ex. 1916, (Williams 1920) lives at The Chimneys, Winnetka, with his two daughters. He is a salesman for McOlive and Andrews at 5 N. Wabash. Howard G. Andrews, Ex. 1916 (Wesleyan 1920) lives at 272 Poplar Street, Winnetka, has one son, and is in the Insurance Exchange. Many will remember his father, Dr. Frank T. Andrews, formerly school physician. Edwin G. Foreman (Northwestern, Ex. 1920) lives in Glencoe and has two daughters. He is in the R.C.A. Manufacturing Co. at 445 Lake Shore Drive. Another insurance man is an old friend just re-discovered, Reginald Hammond (Cornell 1920). He lives at 383 Park Avenue, Glencoe, and has a seventeen-year old son. Russell P. Kelley (Yale 1920) is an investment banker with Kelley, Rich & Co. at 135 S. LaSalle Street. He lives in Lake Forest, and has one son and one daughter. Charles H. Re Qua Jr., Ex. 1916 (Williams 1920) has deserted art for metals in the American Smelting & Refining Co. at Whiting, Indiana, but he still has a place in Santa Fe. He lives at 210 E. Pearson Street and has two daughters. Emil D. Ries (Chicago 1920) is a chemical engineer with Du Pont in Wilmington, Delaware, working as Assistant Director of Sales in the ammonia department. He has two daughters. He still bemoans the fact that he studied Greek. Bill Skinner will not answer letters, so we can't tell you about him. Charles J. Greenebaum, Ex. 1916 (Yale S 1918, Law 1921) is Assistant Trust Officer at the Central Republic Trust Co., 134 S. LaSalle Street. He lives at 1027 Hyde Park Boulevard.

Lester E. Frankenthal (Yale 1920, Rush 1924) practices medicine as an obstetrician and gynecologist. He lives near the University at 5825 Blackstone Avenue and has two sons and a daughter. Thomas Maclay Hoyne II, Ex. 1917, deserted us for University High but we like him anyway. He sells stocks and bonds, is married and has two sons and a daughter. He lives at 428 Elder Lane, in Winnetka. Otto Langbein (Yale 1921) is an attorney and lives at 7135 Euclid Avenue. Hamilton Loeb (Illinois 1921) has one son now at the school. He has another son and one daughter, lives at 4812 Kimbark, and sells insurance at 175 W. Jackson. Edward T. Walker (U. S. Naval Acad. 1921) lives at 584 Hill Avenue, Glen Ellyn, is Secretary and Treasurer of The Chicago Railway Equipment Co., and has four children. Donald Culross Peattie, Ex '17, (Harvard 1922) went to the Harvard School in his tender years, and we take no credit for his success in the literary world. Among his best known books is the beautiful story of Audubon, "Singing in the Wilderness." His most recent book is "Flowering Earth," part of which appeared in the Readers Digest. We discovered Mr. Peattie at Montecito, Santa Barbara, with a family of three sons. Harold P. Ullman, "Percy" of school days, lives at 603 N. Beverly Drive, Beverly Hills, California. Donald Burnham lives at 7857 South Shore Drive.

Edward de Coningh (Princeton 1922, MIT 1925) lives at 23799 Stanford Road, Shaker Heights, Ohio, and is chief engineer of the Mueller Electric Co., Cleveland. He has twins,—a girl and a boy, and another girl. Henry Fitch Baker (Chicago 1922) is married, lives at Riverside, Connecticut, and is general sales manager for the Feroleum Products in New York. When we think of Eddie and Henry we also think of Locke Mackenzie (Yale 1923, Columbia 1926),—now Dr. Locke, physician and gynecologist in New York City. He attends at French and St. Vincent's hospitals, is attending gynecologist to the department of Correction of the City of New York, and chairman of the Committee on Infant Mortality of the Medical Society of the County of New York. He has three sons, John, Colin, and Michael, lives at 47 E. 88th Street, and does deep sea fishing as a hobby. Sigmund Kunstadter (Michigan 1922) lives at 4919 Woodlawn Avenue, is a manufacturer at 508 S. Franklin Street, and has two sons. Howard A. Moses (Cornell 1922) has recently left Chicago for California. Jerome Nathan (Michigan 1922) lives at 613 N. Rexford Drive, Beverly Hills, California, is married, has one son six years old, and is in the fortunate position of being able to bask in the California sun without working. William Brown Pierce (Dartmouth 1922) sells bonds at 135 S. LaSalle, is married, has two children, and lives at 1131 Linden Avenue, Highland Park. Robert E. Rosenthal, (Chicago, Ex. 1922) is in the Pliofilm business, has one daughter, and raises prize-winning dogs on the side. Jimmy Weber (Yale 1921) lives at 328 Sheridan Road, Highland Park, is in the real estate business, and has two children, a girl and a boy. He says he no longer plays tennis—and is glad he isn't in the class of 1940. We have not heard from Chauncey Martyn, nor Allan C. Ashcraft.

John V. Frankenthal (Yale 1926) is a general contractor at 160 N. LaSalle Street, is unmarried, and still lives in the old family home at 4825 Woodlawn. Lawrence E. Abt (Chicago 1924) is a broker at 9 S. LaSalle Street, lives in Highland Park, and has one son. He doesn't feel the slightest sympathy for teachers. (Never did!) John B. Drake Jr. (Yale 1923), Assistant District Supervisor of the Pullman Co. for New York City, has offices in The Grand Central Terminal. He has two sons and a daughter. We have finally succeeded in breaking the silence of Arthur Edwards (MIT 1923) who has the record of never having communicated with the school for 21 years. He lives at 46 Summit Road, Wellesley, Massachusetts, is a mechanical engineer with Jackson and Morland in Boston, was married in 1936, and has one very young son. John J. Heath (Illinois 1924), whom we know as "Jack," grows citrus fruit in De Land, Florida, and has one son, John Jr. Leon Mandel (Cornell 1923) is vice president and general manager of Mandel Brothers. He has one son and one daughter. Knox Munson, Ex. 1919, lives in Wilmette and is a grain broker on the Board of Trade. He is not married. Ernest Rycroft is also on the Board. Stuart H. Otis (Yale 1923) lives at Lake Forest, is married and has two children. He is in the investment business at 135 South La Salle Street. We have not heard from Daniel Fallow.

Some classes stand out for years in the memory of their teachers, and 1920 is one of these. And, when we wrote to them last summer, they all answered promptly and cordially. Almost all of you get A+, which is quite natural. (Or is it?)

Joseph L. Block (Cornell 1922), as nice as ever, has brought us Joe Jr., half-pint size, but resembling his father in many respects. "Big" Joe is Executive Vice President of the Inland Steel Company in charge of sales, and Little Joe is a freshman at Harvard School. Clarence L. Coleman (Princeton 1924), as refreshing as ever (or are there too many syllables in the word?) lives at 828 Bluff Street, Glencoe, deals in real estate at 33 N. LaSalle, and has a son and two daughters. Gard M. Collins (Chicago 1924) has been with General Outdoor Advertising at 655 N. Kedzie since he left college. He lives at 247 Church Road, Winnetka and is married. Lathan A. Crandall (Chicago 1925) was married in 1928, and has recently left Chicago to take the position of Professor and Head of Department of Physiology at the University of Tennessee College of Medicine. John G. Grabfield (MIT 1924) lives in Cincinnati, was married in 1936, and manufactures photographic equipment. Too bad we have to flunk Henry Kohn (Harvard 1924). We never had a chance to do so in school. But we happen to know that Henry is married, lives at 5444 Eastview Park, and is a lawyer at 77 W. Washington St. Arthur Lanski (Northwestern 1924) is a successful business man dealing in petroleum and real estate at 176 W. Adams. He is married and lives not far from the school at 5056 Woodlawn Avenue. Frank E. Mandel (Dartmouth 1924) sells insurance at 175 W. Jackson, is married, and lives at 1300 North State Parkway. Eugene Kimball Morsman (Amherst 1924) liked Amherst so well that he stayed there as Curator of books at the Converse Memorial Library. He travels during his vacations and recently returned from South America. He is one of the eligible bachelors. Byron C. Munson is, we think, our only motion picture representative in Hollywood, although we don't know whether he makes them, is in them, or just sweeps out the lot. Frederic G. Pick (Yale 1924) lives at 120 Hawthorn Avenue, Glencoe, and sells securities at 120 S. LaSalle Street. He has one son and one daughter. William Phillips (Chicago 1924) is in the real estate business with Swan and Lorish, lives at 9857 S. Damen Avenue, and has three sons—including a lively pair of twins. Ernest Mack Robson (Amherst 1924) is a writer at 81 Horatio Street, New York City, and spends his winters trapping in the Catskills,—a regular Daniel Boone. (We shall expect at least a coonskin cap.) After a silence of many years, Robert W. Rogers (MIT 1926) has sent us news of himself. He has been in a Seattle shipyard, has built yachts, shipped to Alaska, serviced steam power plants, and is now an industrial sales engineer for Gulf Oil in Boston. He has two daughters, and lives at Nayatt Road, Barrington, Rhode Island. Many men remember with great affection his fine father, Daniel W. Rogers, who taught many years at the school. William Redfield (Cornell, Babson) lives at the Ambassador when in Chicago. Bill is a hard-working man, spends half the year at Miami Beach, but has offices at 120 South La Salle Street. Henry B. Steele (Dartmouth 1924) sells wholesale groceries with Steele Wedeles, lives at 417 Barry Avenue, and has one daughter. Morgan P. Underwood is engaged in estate management, lives at 1126 East 48th Street, and is a frequent visitor at school where young Morgan is making a name for himself. Horace Wetmore won't write, so we can't give you news of him.

Charles Alexander Brassert, Ex. 1921, (Northwestern 1925) was for many years with Inland Steel, but now is in business with his father, H. A. Brassert & Co., engineers and contractors at 310 S. Michigan Avenue. He has three boys and we hope he will soon move south as he threatens to. Leigh Block (Chicago 1925) is vice president of the purchasing department of Inland Steel, is married, and lives at 3100 North Sheridan Road. William Eisendrath (Harvard 1925) lives at 442 Wellington, is married, and has two daughters. He is a tanner. Henry Felsenthal (Michigan 1924) (not so little now,—around) came to root for Harvard at the Latin football game one cold day last fall. He has one son, lives at 5233 Greenwood Avenue, and imports linens. Gerald Magner is at 175 W. Jackson, sells insurance, is not married, and lives at 5442 Hyde Park Boulevard. Billings McArthur, Ex. 1921 (Yale 1925) is supervisor of the stock control division of the Commonwealth Edison Company. He was married in 1927, lives at 548 Oakdale Avenue, and has a son, Peter, and a daughter, Anne. Aubrey Dent Piggott (Illinois 1925) lives at 6759

Oglesby Avenue and is the manager of the Life Department of the Insurance Brokerage Company. We have not heard from Wallace Clark. Sidney Trude is a broker in food materials and is located in Benton Harbor, Michigan. He is not married.

This is another outstanding class, and, as always, faithful in doing what was asked.

We were glad to reach an old friend in Seward Covert (Chicago 1926), who is in the advertising business at 2700 Terminal Tower, Cleveland, is married, lives at 2842 Lee Road, Shaker Heights, and has two sons. William McC. Drake is a farmer at Elkhart, Logan City, Illinois. Henry Hartman (Dartmouth 1926), after traveling all over the globe, settled down at 630 Warner Avenue, Los Angeles, was married in 1938, and has one very new child. Thomas Dodd Healy (Chicago 1926, Law 1929) is a lawyer, lives at 6910 Oglesby Avenue, and has one daughter. M. Lewis Goodkind (Williams 1926) is an advertiser,—Goodkind & Morgan, 919 N. Michigan Ave. He lives far out in the "sticks" at 12 Country Lane, Northbrook, and has two young children, Anne and Kenneth. Herbert Levy (Wisconsin 1926) lives at 5311 Cornell Avenue, has one daughter, and is in the manufacturing business. Richard M. Loewenstein (Yale 1926) deals in real estate at 160 N. LaSalle, has one son, and has a most interesting house in the modern manner far out in Highland Park, where the pheasants and partridges feed in his front yard. Richard Mandel (Dartmouth 1926) is an industrial designer with Donald Deskey at 630 Fifth Avenue, New York. He designs glassware, furniture, auto bodies, fabrics, and does interior design and architecture. He has had much of his work at the New York World's Fair. His modernistic home is at West Kisco and he has two sons. Frederick Roe (Yale 1926) is an investment counsel on LaSalle Street, and is not married. Edwin O. Robson (Yale 1926) has just started a paint and varnish company at Waukegan. He lives at 1440 Tower Road, Winnetka, and has two sons, the "spit and image" of himself and Ernie (including the red hair and smile). Gardner Stern (Yale 1926) is one of the presiding geni of Stop and Shop; so sometimes when we shop, we stop to see him. His four boys are like an ascending staircase, and go to Latin School. He lives at 41 E. Burton Place. Robert E. Straus (Wisconsin 1926), "Big Bob," is the vice president of the American National Bank. He was married a few years ago, lives at 1209 Astor Street, and has recently become the father of a daughter. Frederick W. Straus (Harvard 1926) lives at 442 Wellington Avenue, is married and has three daughters. He sells securities at 135 S. LaSalle Street. Jack L. Strauss (Dartmouth 1926) lives at 150 S. Spalding Drive, Beverly Hills, California, sells real estate, and has one son. Tracy Lay Turner, Ex. 1922 (Cornell 1926) is a stockbroker with S. B. Chapin & Company. He has one son. We have completely lost Marshall Boyd (Michigan 1926).

This is a class of which we have more or less lost track; missing members please take notice: Edward Adler, Henry Denninger, Howard Hammond, Adolph Samuels, Wm. Cuthbertson, Paul Robinson.

Edward Adler, we hear is in California. Courtenay Barber, Ex. 1923, (Cornell 1928) is still a near neighbor at 4741 Kimbark Avenue. He is a life underwriter at 120 S. LaSalle Street, and is not married. Harold Baum (Yale 1927) is not married. He is the advertising manager of the Silberman Fur Corporation and lives at 5125 Drexel Boulevard. Waid B. Cressy, after graduating from Yale in 1928, attended John Marshall Law School and was admitted to the bar in 1932. Since 1930, however, he has been manager of the Standard Oil Company in Aurora. He is married and has one small son. Edward Gudeman (Harvard 1927) is an executive in the merchandising department of Sears, Roebuck & Co. He is married, lives at 978 Euclid Avenue, Winnetka, and has two sons. William Hirsch (Princeton 1927) has recently been married again and now lives in California. Joseph Hasterlik is in the Best Brewing Co., Chicago, lives at 6834 Constance Avenue, and is not married. Louis Kohn (Chicago 1927, Harvard Law) is an attorney, unmarried, and lives with his parents at 5120 S. Kenwood. John F. Mansure, Ex. 1923, traveled in Europe instead of going to college, and since then has commuted between Philadelphia and Chicago for his business, E. L. Mansure & Co., 1601 S. Indiana Avenue (The old Harvard School was just around the corner). They say he has an interesting home in Philadelphia,—upside down, or something of the sort, called Krazy House. Stanton Meyer (Michigan 1927) is with the Meyer Both Agency and Commercial Art School. He is married and has two daughters. Gerald Morava has a young son, Jay, now in the school and has just moved to Palos Park. Robert Jay Wolff (Ex. 1923) (Yale 1927) is an artist, and has had paintings and sculpture in Art Institute exhibitions. Besides this he is an instructor in art at 53 Wacker Drive.

Robert Bender (Chicago 1928) manufacturers greeting cards at 1104 S. Wabash, is married, has one daughter, and lives on Galusha Road, Warrenville, Illinois. Walter S. Guthman (Yale 1928 PhD Chicago 1932) is a chemist at 732 Federal Street, and lives with his parents at 5208 Ingleside Avenue. We shall never forget his mother's Christmas cookies. B. E. Bensinger (Yale 1928) managed the Brunswick Balke Company at 623 S. Wabash, is married, and has two children. He lives at 1421 Astor Street. Robert Heinsimer (Michigan 1928) is a public accountant at 360 N. Michigan Ave. and unmarried. He lives at 1660 Hyde Park Boulevard. Our able class secretary, Stuart Hertz (Chicago 1927) is a lawyer, lives at 926 Hyde Park Boulevard, and has recently become the father of a little girl. John Phelps Howland (Harvard 1928) is in the Commercial National Bank of New York, and by the time this goes to print, he will be a married man. Since the Howards moved to Buffalo, we have more or less lost track of them, so it was a pleasure to receive a long letter from Edward Douglas Howard (Williams 1928) written in his own peculiar and familiar style of handwriting. We learned that he is an investment banker at 1105 Walbridge Building, and has two sons and a daughter; a picture shows that they have the same abundant locks as "Doug." Joseph S. Lederer (Wharton 1928) is in the business of textile converting (whatever that is). He is not married and lives at the Commonwealth Hotel. James I. Loeb, after a brilliant career at Dartmouth (1928) with Phi Beta Kappa honors, took his doctor's degree at Northwestern, traveled in France and Spain, and teaches romance languages in New York. He is married and has one young child. Edward J. Loewenthal (Wisconsin 1928) is vice president of the Schwarz Paper Company, is married and has two daughters. He lives at 257 Moraine Road, Highland Park. Adolph Moses (Wisconsin 1928) recently dropped in to see us. He is an attorney at law, has two children, a boy and a girl, and lives at 5000 Cornell Ave. He also devotes part of his time to running a boys' camp in northern Wisconsin. Seymour Oppenheimer (Johns Hopkins 1927) is in the Casing Company of the same name. He lives at 2430 Lake View Avenue and has three children, a boy and two girls. Herbert Salzman (Michigan 1928, Chicago (Law) 1931) is a lawyer at 120 S. La Salle Street. He was married in 1937 and lives at 5522 Cornell Avenue. Leo Schoenbrun (MIT 1928) is an architect and interior decorator. He is married, lives at 1755 E. 55th Street, and has two children, a girl and a boy. Edward M. Tourtelot Jr. (Cornell 1929, 1931) had a brilliant career at college and returned to Chicago to be an architect. He has offices at 104 So. Michigan Avenue, lives in Evanston, and has two children. Herman Kirchheimer (Chicago 1929) is in the Kirchheimer Paper Company like all the others of the same name who were in the school. Charles W. Klinetop has a lively little Charles in sixth grade at the Harvard School.

Who would have thought that quiet Billy Chon would be on the staff of the New Yorker Magazine? But that is what they tell us, and they say he is a "big shot" on the editorial staff. The class secretary, Joseph L. Eisendrath (Chicago 1929) has supplied us with most of the information about the class of 1925. As for Joe himself, he is married, has two boys, and manufactures coin banks and other specialties for bank advertising, in the Banthrico Company at 560 W. Lake Street. Jerome S. Freshman (Dartmouth 1929) lives at the Ambassador Hotel, of which he is the manager. He is not married. We have had fine letters from John Hertz Jr., from New York, but the trouble is he objects to dry facts and statistics about business, college, etc. He is not married, although we don't know how the girls have been able to resist him. Someone told us he is in the advertising business, but we are sure that is only a screen for a mysterious life—perhaps he really runs a night club. Jack Hirsch (Michigan 1929) and Lee Kulp (Wisconsin 1929) should really be in business together. Jack could warm you up with the Automatic Burner Corporation, and Lee could cool you with the Empire Cooler Service. Lee is married, lives at 534 Stratford Place, and has one daughter. Richard Magner lives at 5345 Hyde Park Boulevard, sells insurance with Gerald at 175 W. Jackson, and is married. Richard A. Meyer (Michigan 1929) still lives at 5490 South Shore Drive, and manages chain stores for men's clothing. Alex Nast (Michigan 1929) belongs to our Los Angeles group and lives at 416 Comstock Ave. He manufactures electric wires, was married in 1936, and has one son. Fuller Rothschild (Yale ex 1929) is a stockbroker at 105 W. Adams Street. Nat C. Weinfeld (Chicago 1929) is an insurance broker, was married the year he graduated, lives at 9255 Claremont Avenue, and has two daughters. Foster Turner (Chicago 1929) manages the Southmoor Hotel. He has one daughter. We have no news of Louis Kohn.

William D. Berger (Michigan 1930) is with the Oppenheimer Casing Company and unmarried. Roy Farland (Kentucky 1930) is an attorney at 134 S. LaSalle Street and William Foster (Illinois 1930) is with the Van Dyke Industries. James Frey (Pennsylvania 1930) is with the General American Transport Company in East Chicago, lives at 504 Barry Avenue, is married, and has one son, William. J. W. Gimbel Jr. (Pennsylvania 1930) was married in 1938, lives on 222 E. Chestnut, and has one very young son. He is secretary-treasurer of the Pacific and Atlantic Shippers Association at 222 W. Adams. Jerome Hasterlik (Chicago 1930) is with the Best Brewing Company and lives at 6834 S. Constance Avenue. John Karger (Amherst and Harvard 1930) lives at 1192 Park Avenue, New York and is a member of the New York Stock Exchange. His offices are at 11 Wall Street. Robert C. Levis (Chicago, Ex. 1930) is with Morris and Company and lives at 1420 E. 65th Street. Fred Mandel has gained fame among Harvard's young fry by purchasing the Detroit Lions. Fred is a director of Mandel Brothers is married and has one son. He studied at the University of Grenoble France. Melvin Pfaelzer (Chicago Ex. 1930) is in the Bowers Printing Ink Co. He was married in 1931, lives at 5009 Greenwood, and has two daughters. Lawrence Schnadig (Pennsylvania 1930) is with the Pullman Couch Company at 3739 S. Ashland Ave. He was married in 1936, and, like Melvin, has two girls. These South Side boys should do better for Harvard. Arthur Spiegel (Dartmouth 1931) is an executive of Walter Field & Co. He was married in 1937 and he lives in Winnetka. Albert Stein (Pennsylvania 1930) is with Lambert's on North Michigan Avenue. We have had many pleasant visits with our class secretary, William G. Swartchild (Dartmouth 1933), who, after winning Phi Beta Kappa and other honors, returned to Chicago and entered the wholesale jewelry business at 29 East Madison. He lives at 442 Wellington, and has one lively little son who resembles his father.

Henry Bosch lives in Springfield, Ohio, where he is with the International Steel Wool Corporation. In a former alumni bulletin Henry scorned the idea of marriage, but he fell in 1931. He has one daughter. Donald Chilton Craig is in Community Motors Inc. and lives at 2373 E. 70th Street. We haven't seen him for a long time, so we don't know whether he still qualifies as the best dressed man of Harvard. He was married in 1938. Ward Hamilton (Illinois 1931), who has kindly acted as secretary for the class, is in the steel products manufacturing business, is married, lives at 7839 Colfax, and has one son. Lewis E. Howard Jr. (Cornell 1931) is an aircraft engineer with the Bell Aircraft Corporation in Buffalo, where he lives at 675 Delaware Ave. His mind is so much on planes that he has had no time for the hazardous flights of marriage. Charles E. Kahlke, Ex. 1927 (Armour) is our second aircraft engineer. He lives in Baltimore at 525 Wyanoke Avenue, and was married in 1934. Hamilton Moses (Amherst 1931) is a lawyer at 231 S. LaSalle Street. He was married in 1937. William L. O'Connel Jr. (Chicago Ex. 1931) still lives at 4418 Drexel, is not married, and works in the bond department of the state auditor's offices. William M. Schuyler (Dartmouth 1931) won Phi Beta Kappa, studied in France, took his doctor's degree in Chicago in 1938, and is instructor in Romance languages at Notre Dame University. He has a three-year old son and a recent daughter. John S. Wineman lives at 310 Cary Avenue, Highland Park, is married and has two sons, and is a "whiz" at insurance, they tell us. Henry Phelps Howland (Chicago 1931) is in a bank in New York. Luman E. Williams (Alabama 1931) is a Fidelity and Surety underwriter, lives at 4278 Hazel Avenue, and is married. We have no news of Thomas Skillman, John Hardin, Francis Gitsham, nor Elmore Labarthe. Duane Cressy, ex '27 (Wisconsin 1931) is married, has one son, and lives at 6531 Kimbark Avenue.

After hiding for a long time in the wilds of Cleveland, Alan Graff (Cornell 1932) revealed himself as an industrial chemical manufacturer at 2200 Scranton Road, Cleveland. He is not married. Calvin Leavitt (Chicago 1932) is the next bachelor, engaged in packing at Swifts'. Our lone composer of popular music is John Jacob Loeb who left us in sixth grade. He has one son.

Melverne Maegerlein (Northwestern 1929 and Alabama 1930) is a brewmaster at the Aurora Brewing Company. His little daughter is three years old. He still follows fires, but hasn't had much luck lately. He gives us news of Bob Cone (Alabama 1932), who is now in Oil City, Pennsylvania, with Austin & Co., contractors, and married an Alabama girl a year ago. Clarence McCarthy (Harvard 1932) is with Marshall Field & Co., and lives at 210 Pearson Street. You should see Harold Kirchheimer, who once was a slender and delicate lad. Making paper agrees with him. Henry Stresenreuter (Northwestern) was married in 1932 and has one daughter. He is in the Labor Efficiency Department of Swifts', and lives at 9157 S. Leavitt Avenue. James H. Swartchild (Dartmouth 1932) is in the wholesale jewelry business with Billy, Bobby, and the two Swartchild seniors. He was married in 1934 and has one daughter and one son. Robert Swartchild (Alabama 1932) is unmarried. Julius Freehling is an executive at the Boston Store. We have made vain efforts to elicit replies from Robert Vierling (Chicago 1932) and Frank Warren (Cornell 1932). (Sorry we have to flunk them). Both are married and each had one daughter, according to the last news we had. Frank lives at 5318 Woodlawn Avenue, and Bob at 6720 S. Chappell. Jack Wieland is married also and lives on the north side. Joseph C. Meyer (Yale 1932, Chicago 1935) is now Dr. Meyer, practicing at 104 S. Michigan Avenue. We have no news of Louis K. Brennan. Richard Fulghum (North Carolina 1932) specialized in engineering and chemistry and is now a chemist with Standard Oil in Whiting, Indiana. He lives at 8921 Kenwood Avenue.

Walter Baer (Michigan 1933) was married soon after graduation and has one son. He lives at 5100 Ellis Avenue. He manufactures grinding wheels and also manages real estate. Our efficient secretary, John E. Coleman (Dartmouth) has obtained news of almost everyone in the class. Johnnie himself is a broker on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange at 110 N. Franklin Street. He has three children, including a set of twins. William Cahn (Princeton 1933) is with A. G. Becker, Investments, New York, lives on Lexington Avenue and has one son. David Davis (Illinois 1930) dropped in at school not long ago on his way to his home at 1415 Bradbury Road, San Marino, California. He is married. John G. Eaton is a banker in Holland, Michigan. His home address is Oakcroft at Waukazoo, Holland. Guy Ederheimer (Yale 1933) lives at the Shoreland, is unmarried and sells electrical supplies. Stanley Goodfriend (Illinois 1933, Chicago Law 1935) is a lawyer at 10 S. La Salle Street; and Edgar Goldsmith (Chicago 1933) a Public Relations Counsellor at 7 S. Dearborn. Edgar was married in 1937. We last heard of William Gillies (Dartmouth 1933) at the time of his marriage about a year ago. He is in the steel business in Youngstown, Ohio. Walter A. Graff, Ex. 1929, (Virginia) now lives at 212 Valley View Drive, Medford, Oregon. He is in the timber business. He was married in 1937 and has one son. Arthur G. FACULTY NOTES

C. L. Ricketts, Chicago's best known illuminator, has retired from his work at the Scriptorium, which is in charge of his son-in-law, Jasper King. Mr. Ricketts lives in Winnetka, has two married daughters and several grandchildren. Andrew L. Winters is practicing law, and lives at 10745 South Seeley Avenue in Morgan Park. Helen F. Page was for many years librarian of the public library of Harvard, Mass., and now has retired to her home at Dedham, Mass. We all know Miss Elizabeth Faulkner who is actively and successfully managing the eminent Faulkner School for Girls at 4809 Dorchester Avenue. Payson S. Wild, one of the leading lights of the Chicago Literary Club, spends much of his time at his summer home at Bridgman, Michigan. Isabel Travis McKnight, who will be affectionately remembered by many former first and second graders, lives in Bloomington, Illinois and has a married son. Wendell S. Brooks is assistant to the dean of North Park College, Chicago. He has written a number of books dealing with young people. Clara E. Peterson retired from school work a few years ago and is keeping house for her sisters at 7700 Paxton Avenue. She is rejoicing in the birth of a grandnephew. Angus M. Frew comes in to see us occasionally when back from his work as director of physical education at Western Reserve Academy, Hudson, Ohio. "Froc" looks just the same. Robert G. Buzzard is president of the Western Illinois State Teachers College at McComb, Illinois. He has four sons. Mary McCann Johnson's shining copper hair has turned a beautiful white, but she's as full of fire and pep as ever. Since retiring from school work she has been living at her home at 4728 Greenwood Avenue. "Coach" Wood, who married John Eaton's sister, is in business at Holland, Michigan, where he lives with his family. Elizabeth E. Langley who so successfully taught manual training, has a progressive school of her own, the Edgewood School at Greenwich, Conn. Walter M. Schimmel, now Dr. Schimmel, has exchanged mathematics for medicine at Arlington Heights, Ill. His home address is 112 S. State Street, and he has two children. Harriet Rice entered the Chicago Public School system some years ago and is busy teaching mathematics, commercial arithmetic, English and Gymnasium at Bowen branch high school. Dorothy Higgins Brown and Gertrude Brown, formerly in our primary department, are now teaching in the North Shore schools. When we last heard of Elizabeth Perley she was living on the North Side and teaching private pupils. "Miss Letsch" as she was known to boys from 1924 on, has changed her name to Mrs. M. A. Anderson and lives in her new home at 10417 S. Maplewood Ave.

POSTSCRIPT

In closing the Alumni Section of the Review, we wish to express our thanks to all alumni and friends for their kindness in sending information and addresses. We hope you will feel that these results, incomplete as they are, have justified the time and effort which your part in the work entailed. There will no doubt be corrections and additions to make. We shall be glad to receive them at the school address, and shall plan to issue alumni bulletins more frequently.
